When Mark Twain called the game of golf “a good walk spoiled,” he most certainly wasn’t referring to mountain golf, where the stunning setting is surely worthy of a leisurely saunter—with clubs or without. After all, it’s no coincidence that some of the most beautiful courses are located at or near ski resorts.

We’re no golf pros here at SKI, but we can appreciate the opportunity to soak in the setting while taking a stroll along a scenic 18. Here are seven ski-country golf courses with amazing mountain settings.

Edgewood Tahoe, Lake Tahoe, Calif.

- 7,532 Yards
- Par 72

It's not at one of the area ski resorts, but this lakeside course is undeniably one of the prettiest in the region. Set at 6,200 feet right at Lake Tahoe's shoreline, the course was designed to never let you forget where you are. Designed by George Fazio and updated by his renowned golf-architect nephew Tom Fazio, the Edgewood course is known for a mix of challenge and surprise features around every corner.
